It is affirmed that several importing (European) firms have lost heavily through the sudden disappearance of native dealers who had contracted to receive goods from them. The letter refers to an impression, which the writer thinks is growing in favour at home, that the China market for To Capital-English goods-is about to-expand_quickly_and. to an important extent. This view is regarded as erroneous, and the writer states that until the country is opened up, railways introduced and foreign skill applied to the many treacherous watercourses no material increase can occur in the distribution of Manchester goods in China. By that time, it is added. Chinese and Japanese mills will have been erected in sufficient numbers to prove formidable competitors with those of Lancashire.

In this piece Miss Carvalho certainly improved on anything she has given before. and the difficult trills in the final bars were exceptionally well rendered. Mr. C. Lammert is always well worth listening to, and his pleasing tenor voice was heard to advantage in "Love the Pilgrim." Mr. Lammert although he did well, was not quite so successful in the duet from "Faust," his voice not being powerful enough to do full justice to the part in a room of the size of the Club's Concort Hull. Mr.

on Thursday evening was not a particularly happy one. His solo from "Les Huguenots," although rendered in an artistic manner, required a bass voice of far greater power than Mr-Bachrach's to give it to advantage. Mr. Bachrach was, however, of great assistance in several concerted pieces. It can always be taken as an assured fact when one sees Mr. Grace's name on a programme that one will bave a first class performance and his rendering of the Toreador's song was one of the best things of the evening. There is always a pleasing freshness about Mr. Grace's voice, while his style is well nigh perfect. Mrs. Humphreys, in addition to the duet with Mr. Withers, gave a solo from meeting of shareholders, held at the Cannon "La Sonnambula," which was fairly well rendered, Mrs. Guodos sang an air from "La-Favorita" in good style, and Mr. Crow gave "Oh! Oh! bear the wild wind blow" in a rousing manner, which secured him hearty applause. Signor Cattaneo again acted as conductor, a fact which was patent to every one. During the interval between the two parts of the programme a very good amateur hand played several selections.

The concert was organized by a Committee consisting of the following gentlemen: -- Messra. J. A. de Carvalho, A. dos Remedios, E. H, d'Aquino, F. A. Gomes, D. de Noronha, and J.

ON CALCUTTA .--But sonade, and the officials who had been conneeded with him directly or indirectly in the good works accomplished by him during his On Shangual .many years' residence in Japan, flocked in hur drods to bid farewell to the venerable jurist. There wat no mistaking the spontaneity and heartiness | Sovenerons of the feeling that animated these representatives of New Japan. Tears were not wanting, nor yet the most demonstrative forms of farewell that even French usage sanctions. M. Boissonade's absence will be but brief, we trust, yet we cannot pass unnoticed the departure of one to whom this empire owes such a deep debt of gratitude, and who carries with him the esteem and regard of officials and people alike. His record is already well known to the public. We need only recal the facts that he took the leading part in compiling the drafts of the Penal Code and Code of Criminal Procedure and the Civil Code-now before the Senate-and this his work has been enlogised in high terms by the most eminent European experts. Every one who came in contact with him learned to love his unassuming genin lity and to admire his broad intellect, and Japan, we imagine, is fully sensible of the great good fortune that procured for her the sympathetic aid of such a scholar in a business of such overshadowing importance as the drafting of her new Law Codes.

An accident, unhappily fatal, occurred on the 27th April on the Tokye-Kyolo Railway. . Mr Hida Hamagore, Chief of the Estates Bureau in the Imperial Household Department, was a passenger by the train going southwards. At Shizuoka, where a stay of a few minutes is made Mr. Hida left his carriage for a necessary purpose, but owing to the large number of passengers and the insufficiency of the accommodation, he was unable to accomplish his object. At the next station but one, Fuji-yoda, the train stops for a moment only. Here Mr. Hida alighted. but before he could re-enter his carriage the train was in motion again. He nevertheless attempted to regain his sent, but missed his footing and fell between the platform and the train. On-lookers say that he succeeded in avoiding two carriages as they passed, but that something projecting from beneath the third apparently caught his sleave and dragged him ander. The train was arrested in a moment, not, however, before a wheel had passed over the unfortunate gentleman's body. He expired immediately. Mr. Hida was fifty-nine years old His record of service is long and distinguished. In 1859, under the Tokugawa Government, he held the post of Naval Instructor, and was sent to America the same year in a Japanese man-ofwar. In 1862, having risen to the rank of Naval Inspector, he had command of the ship it which the Shogun proceeded to Kyoto for his historical interview with the Emporor. Subsequently detailed for civil duty, Mr. Hida obtained steady promotion. Chief of the Estates Bureau, he was a chokunin of the First Class, with Second Class of the Fourth Grade official rank, and the Third Class of the Rising Sun. It is scarcely necessary to observe that this sad event emphasises a point to which we drew attention in the autumn of 1887, namely, the insufficiency of the accommodation at stations on Japanese railways. Since that time great improvements have been effected, and we believe that the Authorities intend to run carriages with closets on all lines of any length. It is an essential measure, not alone in the cause of public decency, but also because, with things as they are now, such accidents as that recorded above are liable to happen at any moment. Despite the great care usually exercised by the railway officials, passengers will rush to eatch a train in motion when, like Mr. Hida, having been obliged to alight at a by-station, they see themselves in danger of being left behind .- Mail.

The reservoir being on the south-west side of the town, pipes will be laid from it through the latter, and the water of the Akagawa will be given the necessary head by pumping works on the spot. It is a pretty big undertaking, but nachinery and steam engines are capable of anything-now-a days.
